Narrative:

On October 15, 2009 at approximately 12:12 p.m, the Vacaville Communications Center received a 911 call concerning a shooting that had just occurred in the 1500 block of Alamo Drive. Patrol units and paramedics responded to the scene and found a female victim suffering from a gunshot wound. The female victim had received what appeared to be a wound from a shotgun in the left arm and upper chest area. Paramedics treated the victim at the scene and she was transported by air ambulance to a local trauma center. Her condition at this time is considered serious but not life threatening. The victim's name is not being released at this time.

The only other person found at the residence at the time of the incident was S-Kevin Allen, the victim's live-in boyfriend. The investigation revealed that S- Allen and the victim were involved in a heated verbal argument. The argument escalated to violence when S-Allen shot the victim once in her upper torso. S-Allen was transported to Solano County Jail and booked on the following charges; 664/187 PC, Attempted murder, 12022 b (1) PC, use of a firearm during a felony, 246 PC, Discharging a firearm at an inhabiting dwelling and 273.5 PC, felony domestic violence.

A search warrant was served at the residence and police believe that the shotgun used in this crime was recovered at the scene. The Investigative Service Section (ISS) is investigating this case and anyone with information about this crime is being asked to call Detective David Kellis at (707) 449-5258.
